

1 the states and will give the people of the state
2 assurance of this kind of service through one administra-
3 tion after another, and that is what you want.

4 MR. MARTINEAU: Isn't there actually an
5 example in Pennsylvania of how this so-called voluntary
6 system actually backfired on the Governor of Pennsylvania
7 and turned out to be a rather disastrous proposal for 8 him?

9 MR. WINTER: Well, I would not put it that 10 way. Governor Scranton was the first one who did 11 appoint a voluntary commission to advise him with 12 respect to a series of Common Pleas Court appointments
13 in Philadelphia. I would not say that it backfired.
14 Those appointments came up in due course of time for 15 election under the elective system and political authori-
16 ties who would have liked to have had a hand in their 17 original selection and were not able to do so because 18 of that, finally had a chance to get back at them and 19 it was necessary because of the system to make some 20 kind of an arrangement for those men's protection and 21 an arrangement was provided, where I am not at this