

1 citizenship and the transmission from generation to 2 generation of what we, I think, would call our democratic 3 heritage. I find no mention of this at all in Article
4 43, and I certainly consider this to be as important as,
5 shall we say the promotion of manufacturers or agricul-
6 ture or something of that sort.

7 I would also suggest perhaps that this be 8 written in simpler and more precise terms. This is one
9 of the reasons why I think of the need for good editing.
10 I hold up as an example the preamble to our Federal 11 Constitution, we, the people. I think we all know what 12 that says. It says it succinctly, it says it clearly 13 and it has withstood the test of time.

14 The other comments I have really are questions
15 I'm a little curious as to why there should be included
16 in Article 43 of the Declaration of Rights the sentence
17 which has to do with, or the stipulation, really, regard-
18 ing the assessment of farmland. I can see where certain 19 individuals and certain groups might feel this is an im-
20 portant stipulation. I really question, not so much its 21 inclusion in the document, but rather its inclusion in
