

1 in the material you presented and I wanted to particular-
2 ly refer to it here. Although a portion of this article
3 has been partially, at least, invalidated by a recent 4 decision of the Supreme Court, I urge the retention of 5 this article with the least possible change and that the 6 phrase: "Nor ought any person to be compelled to frequent 7 or maintain, or contribute, unless on contract, to main-
8 tain, any place of worship, or any ministry," be retained
9 without change.

10 You were discussing this a while ago and it
11 seems to me again, let me urge this, as others here have,
12 you do not attempt to write a Constitution in specific 13 detail. As Mr. Sartorius said, if you do, we're going 14 to be faced with constitutional amendments at every 15 whipstitch, if I may use that word. But even in the 16 field of education, since our whole Declaration of Rights 17 is based on English law, I think it can be argued, when 18 it says any person ought to be free to administer -- in 19 England, it's the ministry of education, and I wonder if 20 this doesn't have significance to the very things you
21 have been talking about here before. I am not a
