

1 belong in this category. They are both stimulating and 2 effective, despite the fact that they cannot be read as 3 hurriedly as this morning's newspaper.

4 Now, we come to the Constitution itself.
5 Article 3, the legislative department, Section 52, of 6 which there has been considerable discussion and I may 7 point out I was interested to note that you didn't list
8 that on the sheet you sent and I hope, Madam Chairlady,
9 that this is perhaps a matter of oversight and not one 10 of lack of interest on the part of the Commission in the 11 educational aspects of this.

12 Now, in my opinion, this section is almost 13 equal in importance to Article 8, which deals directly 14 with public education.

15 DR. BARD: Mr. Raver, I think you should know
16 that before you came in a good deal of attention, and I
17 am speaking now as a member of the Commission, not this 18 particular Committee, since you are dealing with an item
19 in the legislative department, of which I am chairman;
20 but a good deal of attention has been given to this
21 article. In fact, most of the attention before you
