

1 with the articles that you mentioned as specifically as 2 I would like to be, but it does seem to me that it would 3 be well for the Commission to consider some statement
4 which in a sense supports the value and the contribution
5 of independent education in a broad sort of way, rather 6 than leaving it entirely out of consideration.

7 MR. ENEY: The second question, do you think
8 it desirable to include in the Constitution some pro-9 vision for specific aid to private institutions as, 10 for example, tax exemption, which is now a matter of 11 statute and not a matter of constitutional right?

12 MR. LAMBORN: I am speaking entirely for 13 myself, now, sir. I would think that' it would be help-
14 ful to have a broad generalized statement such as tax 15 exemption. When it goes from there to specific aid, in 16 terms of outflow of dollars, I would make a distinction
17 there.

18 THE CHAIRLADY: Mr. Raver, did you have any 19 comment in that area, as to whether there should be any 20 reference to private education in the Constitution?

21 MR. RAVER: Well, I referred to, of course,
