

1 Article 43, in this matter of ministry, but, of course,
2 that would deal more nearly with parochial education
3 than private. I have said that I think this area should 4 be kept so general that the courts should decide. For 5 instance, there is an important case now before the 6 Court of Appeals of Maryland on this matter of State
7 aid to, number one, private institutions and, number
8 two, parochial institutions, and there is apparently a 9 distinction in the argument of the case right there.
10 This seems to me to be sound, to let the courts settle 11 it from time to time because, as society needs changes,
12 we find that the courts are changing their decisions
13 about what the State ought to do with its dollars in 14 terms of aid, and this satisfies me all right. I'm 15 willing to leave this with the courts. So, I would say,
16 if you get too specific here, we may regret it ten years
17 from now and may be working for a constitutional amend-
18 ment.

19 THE CHAIRLADY: Has anyone else any comments
20 they feel urgent to make?

21 DR. ZIMMERMAN: Just a footnote to what
