

1 is a desirable thing, that it might be a good idea to
2 attract nuclear industry, nuclear research industry in the
3 State, but a bit of property in the hands of a research
4 development corporation, the precise same machine in the 5 hands of such a corporation would bear tax, which in the 6 hands of a nuclear research development corporation would
7 not bear tax, and to me this seems a classification that 8 is uniform but inequitable and unjust in terms of its 9 effect.

10 MR. BOND: I was also in on that, Mrs. Hoffman.
11 So, you've struck me --

12 MRS. HOFFMAN: Mr. Bond, if I had only known, I
13 would have chosen things that happened fifty years ago.

14 MR. BOND: You're talking about the nuclear
15 plant in Queenstown.

16 MRS. HOFFMAN: Pardon?

17 MR. BOND: I'm sorry. Go ahead.

18 MRS. HOFFMAN: I'm batting a thousand -- I
19 mean one hundred. My respect for Mr. Bond is enhanced by 20 his advocacy of successful onslaughts on the public
21 treasury.
