

1 them questions which we've got to wrestle with, which we 2 regard to be policy questions. Now, what Mr. Eney as 3 Chairman does with them after he gets them, I'm going to 4 leave up to him because that I feel is a little bit be-
5 yond where I can answer the question.

6 I do feel that we have made some progress in 7 the direction of crystallization of issues. With the 8 suggestion that Dr. Burdett has made, I think we further 9 accomplished that purpose. I think what really is going 10 to happen and, to be constructive in answer to the ques-
11 tion, the Commission is going to be confronted with these 12 things. It is going to have an appreciation of our prob-13 lem and then it is going to dump it right back into our 14 laps to solve it. And where it is a matter of alternatives,
15 they are going to ask us to suggest to them the alterna-
16 tives. So, we are back on the road to resolving the 17 problem.

18 MR. MELVIN: That's what I was wondering. As 19 I understood Mr. Eney, it is not mandatory that we present
20 these problems to him unless we have made up our minds 21 as to what we are going to recommend with respect to the
