EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

November 9, 1779–November 13, 1780

John Hoskins Stone      Jeremiah Townly Chase      James Brice
Daniel Carroll      John Brice

<sup>1</sup> The governor convened the General Assembly on November 1, 1779. The House adjourned daily until November 8, when a quorum was gathered. Recorded proceedings for the Senate begin on November 8.

<sup>2</sup> Tilghman was elected president at the beginning of the third session to replace Jenifer who was attending Congress. Jenifer returned from Congress on June 14 and was reelected to the presidency on June 15, 1780.

<sup>3</sup> John Taylor was discharged and fined on November 10, 1779, because, even though he was sheriff of Harford County, he had conducted his own election, received votes for himself, and signed the return which named him a delegate. A new election was held, and on March 25, 1780, Taylor was reported reelected. He was again ruled ineligible, however, because at the time of the second election he was collector of the tax for Harford County. A third election was held on April 12, by which time Taylor no longer held any government office. He was again reelected, and qualified on April 25, 1780.

<sup>5</sup> There is no evidence that the Committee on Manufactories and the Committee to Examine the Returns of the Tax Commissioners functioned during the third session.

<sup>6</sup> The Committee of Claims also assumed the responsibility for examining the state of the Treasury and the Loan Office.
