

1 DR. JENKINS: Nor shall any person -- this
2 picks this up -- Nor shall any person be subjected by law
3 to segregation or discrimination because of religion,
4 race, color, ancestry or national origin, or in any other
5 measure be deprived of the equal protection of the law.

6 DR. BURDETTE: I am not sure about that last
7 part of it, but I am going to be persuaded that if you
8 put it in that way, Mr. Chairman, in the language which 9 I referred to, not weakening the existing equal protec-
10 tion of the law but expanding it somewhat by spelling it
11 out and without limiting it, and I am going to be per-12 suaded by it.

13 DR. JENKINS: Or in any other manner. I am
14 sorry; I said, measure.

15 THE CHAIRMAN: Dr. Jenkins, could we have that 16 once again, Nor shall any person be subjected by law to 17 segregation and discrimination because of religion, race,
18 color, national ancestry, and then?

19 DR. JENKINS: Or in any other manner be deprived
20 of the equal protection of the law.

21 MR. MILLER: Would you go along with, Any other
