

1 very hesitant to bring up in that Committee changes of 2 style language if they would affect the substance.

3 Mrs. Freedlander, to my mind, is not talking 4 about removing the magic words, which nobody wants to 5 remove, but rather talking about the awkward language,
6 purporting to authority, and I am wondering if one can 7 instead of saying, purporting to authorize, say,
8 authorizing the creation, because I would call to the 9 attention of the Committee that if one later goes on and 10 wants to be perfectly consistent, and after the comma
11 one would say, the obligation so purported and not so 12 authorized, because the word, purport, impugns the 13 authorization. I don't believe the Committee really 14 intended to do that.

15 THE CHAIRMAN: I think it did intend to do 16 that.

17 MR. CASE: That is right.

18 DR. BURDETTE: If they want to impugn the 19 authorization, they should use the language purported,
20 shall not be considered an indebtedness of the State. It 21 almost implies it has been authorized. I am asking can we
