

1 contemplate that its activities are going to cease on
2 January 19.

3 In that connection, and thinking ahead a bit,
4 I wish also that the Members of the Commission would 5 be giving thought to the practical problems with which 6 we are confronted here. One of the immediate problems
7 and one of the reasons we have the Report of the Committee
8 on Convention Procedures on the agenda this week is the 9 question of whether the bill providing for the Conven-
10 tion next year should be submitted to the Legislative 11 Council, or whether it would be desirable to have the 12 bill presented at the first session, or the first day of 13 the session of the new Legislature.

14 This poses a practical problem because, while 15 offhand one would think it certainly would be desirable
16 to present it to the Legislative Council, it must be kept
17 in mind that the Legislative Council is a sort of a lame
18 duck council. It is the remnant of the unapportioned
19 Legislature and the Legislature that takes office next
20 January, the apportioned Legislature, will be somewhat 21 different in composition and perhaps in attitude.
