

1           MR. SCANLAN: I think if you start drafting
2 language which indicates they have to come up with a 3 complete Constitution, this suggests that unless they 4 come up with a complete Constitution, they can't come 5 up with anything. It is entirely possible that they 6 might not reach agreement on a complete Constitution.

7           DR. MICHENER: Mr. Scanlan, in reference
8 to question about it on Line 3, Page 11, says the power
9 to enact the whole implied power to do the lesser.
10 Why do you think differently in this instance?

11           MR. SCANLAN: I don't get your point.

12           DR. MICHENER: Here they specified
13 Constitution or amendment. You said no need to 14 specify amendment because they had power to adopt a 15 Constitution and had the power to propose amendments.
16 Why do you feel differently on this point now? They 17 have the power to draft a full document, by your logic
18 a few minutes ago, they would have power to draft amend-
19 ments.

20           MR. SCANLAN: I agree but I don't understand 21 the inconsistency.
