

1 provision. I don't think that's right.

2 THE CHAIRMAN: You mean if the schedule
3 provides for a deferring of the effective date?

4 MR. HOFF: Yes.

5 THE CHAIRMAN: Isn't that a question if I
6 followed Mr. Brooks' suggestion that the Convention
7 would consider in adopting a schedule or in the language
8 of the schedule.

9 MR. BROOKS: The Constitution itself will 10 state the date upon ratification that it will go into 11 effect. That would not be a schedule item. The 12 schedule, however, would provide for, for instance, a 13 carry-over of legislative and executive and judicial 14 salaries since they are being eliminated from the 15 present Constitution until such time as the Legislature
16 has an opportunity to provide some kind of law to replace
17 what otherwise has been in the Constitution theretofore.
18 That's the kind of material that would be in a schedule.

19 JUDGE ADKINS: Does this word schedule have 20 a sufficiently precise meaning in constitutional law
21 to be intelligible? A schedule to me normally means a
