

1 is very likely through junior college years a free educa-
2 tion will be available. The use of the words, school age, 3 is to connote whatever the current meaning of it may be,
4 and we feel by using it, there will be no need for con-
5 stitutional amendment on the subject at any time.

6 MR. MILLER: The only thought I have in that 7 connection is the word, children. In this day when so
8 many young men are drafted to go to war and come back, 9 they may be in their twenties or twenty-one, and they 10 are not children, but they should have the, they are of 11 school age in view of that kind of situation. I don't 12 like the word, children.

13 THE CHAIRMAN: Mr. Della?

14 MR. DELLA: I think it is wise to leave the 15 school age out of the phrase as such, because some educa-
16 tors are of the opinion now that children should start to 17 school at the age of two and three years of age because 18 the earlier they can get them started, the easier they 19 can start molding their minds. As was pointed out, times 20 are developing now with automation and technological 21 developments that most people will be going to school for
