

1 passed 183 bills carried to them from the Senate without 2 any alteration at all. Review Index One indicates that 3 only a grammatical change of some kind or other has been 4 made in the bills enacted that have been sent to the House
5 from the Senate. Review Index Two indicates minor sub-
6 stantive change. Review Index Three indicates some major 7 overhaul, a real significant policy alteration in the 8 legislation as it arrived from the Senate, and Conference
9 Committees have those bills referred out to Conference.

10 There is one problem, there's an immediate dis-
11 crepancy between Three and Four. There should be the same 12 number in the Senate and Committee, but one got lost some-13 where. There is one other thing that should be called to 14 your attention that could be a significant factor that is 15 not reflected here, which is the question of how many of 16 the bills were precisely the same at the time they were 17 introduced in the House and the Senate and that will be 18 taken into account at a later time, but at this point we 19 don't have sufficient statistics to indicate that on this 20 particular analysis.

21 THE CHAIRMAN: All right, now, without putting
