failing action by the governor orders him to act; two, that we say nothing, which leaves the matter to determination by the courts in the usual course of litigation, or, three, a provision requiring the Court of Appeals to appoint a committee to draw up the plan.

it is, that is, that the Court of Appeals

DR. BARD: Mr. Chairman, would you be willing to eliminate that first choice? In light of our discussion --

THE CHAIRMAN: The Committee eliminates it?

DR. BARD: The Committee itself would probably eliminate the concept of ordering the governor.

14

THE CHAIRMAN: Is there any objection to eliminating from consideration the consideration that the Court of Appeals orders the governor. All right. We have left two propositions.

THE CHAIRMAN: Say nothing, leaving it to the normal course of litigation.

MR. SCANLAN: No. I suggest, as a third, that nothing.
