

1 Constitution.

2 DR. WINSLOW: We have a legislative body which 3 presumably will be responsive to the public will. I
4 am willing to put great trust in the Legislature that 5 will be created under the new Constitution. For that 6 matter with few exceptions, I am opposed to putting 7 too many curbs on their power to act in behalf of the 8 people.

9 Since we are going to have the referendum
10 which has been determined by the Commission, I am not 11 fighting that battle. I would think those areas
12 where we have had experiences which show a few people, 13 just a few out of a whole state, who find it to their 14 advantage to delay and suspend the will of the people
15 until a friendly court can come to their aid, we ought 16 to cut down on the possibilities of that in the future
17 certainly in the field of apportioning, as the Committee 18 did, and second from my field of view, the field of 19 Congressional districting, we were four years with 20 Congressmen at Large and for a half decade in a state 21 of confusion, I would want to see the possibilities of
