Jefferson recommended that the decimal system be used in the coinage system and that the basic unit be one dollar, similar to the Spanish dollar. The smallest unit should be $\frac{1}{100}$ of a dollar. He shows the disadvantages of the contemporary monetary system. This item is sometimes found appended to his Notes on the State of Virginia (1782). See H. B. Tompkins, Bibliotheca Jeffersoniana, 1887, number 96. The pamphlet is dated Annapolis, May 9, 1784.
