539. The | Pennsylvania, Delaware, | Maryland and Virginia | Almanack, | And | Ephemeris, | For the Year of Our Lord, | 1791; | . . . [double rule] | Baltimore: Printed and Sold, Wholesale and Re- | tail, by William Goddard and James Angell, | . . . [1790.]

12mo. [A]-B<sup>12</sup>. 24 leaves.

Pages: [1], 2-48.

Leaf measures: 6½ x 3¾ inches.

The Story of Montesquieu is reprinted here. It was a favorite item for those who edited almanacs. There are also four and one half pages on agriculture extracted from "The Agronome: Or The Farmer's Pocket-Dictionary."

Evans, 23094.

JCB (interleaved). LC (lacks last leaf).

541. SPECTATOR. To the Public. | It is a painful Necessity only which induces me to appear again before the | Public . . . [signed] A Spectator. | Baltimore, August 2, 1790. [Baltimore: Printed by John Hayes, 1790.]

Large 4to. broadside. Printed in three columns.

Leaf measures: 17 x 16½ inches.

Occasioned by the dissolution of the medical society of Baltimore. The bitter attack on those who caused the failure of the project is followed by a pessimistic view of the future possibilities of a medical school in the town. "The injury done to you, by the Dissolution of the Medical Society of this Town, is plain. Half a Century will not restore that Public Confidence in our Physicians that is essential to the Establishment of a Medical School at your Doors."

Not in Evans or Sabin.

EPFL (2 copies.)

542. ——— To The | Public. | My silence for some time past will no doubt excite the | surprise of many . . . [signed] A Spectator. | Baltimore, July 21, 1790. | [Baltimore: Printed by John Hayes?, 1790.]

Folio broadside.

Leaf measures: 17 x 10 inches.

Published as a broadside because Goddard and Angell did not think the newspaper readers would be sufficiently interested in the Medical Society to justify using space there. The controversy which occasioned this broadside arose over the dissolution of the society. See number 541.

Not in Evans or Sabin.
