was dissolved on September 24, 1806.114

Sower is remembered. He entered into the typefounding business with William Gwynn, later editor of the Federal Gazette, Gwynn apparently furnishing much of the capital and assigning the entire management of the business to Sower. 115 In 1806 he purchased the foundry worked by Justus Fox, thereby obtaining some of his father's former possessions. 116 In 1808 he was engaged in casting the smallest type yet used in the world. 117 Perhaps it was with this diamond type that Samuel Sower's famous Fible was printed, with John Hagerty as publisher and Brooke Watson Sower, son of Christopher Sower III, as printer. 118

In 1813 Samuel Sower was called to the ministry by the Dunkard congregation, 119 to which he, as his father before him, belonged. Sower was married three times, to Sarah Landes (1767-1791), Hannah Schlosser and Elizabeth Lamotte (d. 1862) 120. His only child, Waria (1796-1875) was married to Richard Spalding, a Roman Catholic, which marriage caused Sower much grief because of his strong personal religious beliefs. 121

<sup>114</sup> Federal gazette.September 24, 1806.

<sup>115</sup> Seidensticker, O. op. cit. p. 16.

<sup>116</sup> McCulloch, William. op. cit. p. 162.

<sup>117</sup> Seidensticker, O. op. cit. p. 16.

<sup>118</sup> Ibid. p. 16.

<sup>119</sup> Ibid. p. 16.

<sup>120</sup> Sower, C.G. op. cit.

<sup>121</sup> Seidensticker, O. op. cit. p. 16.