Two published articles by Luxon are based on the latter dissertation, "Hezekiah Niles, the Man and the Editor," in the June 1941 issue of the Mississippi Valley Historical Review, and "Niles' Weekly Register - Nineteenth Century News-Magazine," in the Journalism Quarterly of September 1941.

Michael Duffey, - Michael Duffey, printer of Fell's Point, left his imprint upon only one pamphlet which has survived, a Catholic Catechism called A Short Abridgement of Christian Doctrine.⁹² Of that publication, only one copy has been located, at Georgetown University. The character of this one imprint, coupled with Duffey's decidedly Irish name, has led to the conclusion that he was a Catholic.⁹³

There is one other publication, a pamphlet of twelve pages, without title-page or imprint, which may be identified as an output of the Duffey press. It is William Reily's Courtship, Trial and Marriage;⁹⁴ a rather long ballad of presumably Irish origin; which appeared contemporaneously, in libretto form only, with slightly differing titles and texts.
