

slavery, and the relief of free Negroes, and others unlawfully held in bondage. Baltimore, July 4th, 1791. By George Buchanan, M.D., member of the American philosophical society.
Baltimore: Printed by Philip Edwards. MDCCXCII.

4°.

Pages: 20.

Evans may have been in error when he listed this under 1792. Although a number of copies of the 1793 edition (Evans 25237) have been located, not a single copy of the Oration printed in 1792 has come to light; nor has any reference to, or advertisement for such a 1792 publication been discovered in any contemporary newspaper. Evans locates this 1792 item PPL and NN. PPL has only one edition, that of 1793. A clue to Evans' date has been found in the NN copy. The Roman numerals which form the date are not even; the third "I" in "MDCCXCIII" is lower than the others. In trimming the NN copy, the entire date was removed, with the exception of the serifs which form the top of the Roman numerals; and since the alignment was imperfect, no serif was visible for the third "I". In examining this copy, Evans may have considered that he had a 1792 edition; but the NN copy agrees in every detail with Evans 25237, and it is unlikely that it ever carried a different publication date.

Evans 24152.

No copy located.

56 Carpenters society, Baltimore.

A Price-book, in alphabetical order, of sundry carpenters work, collected, calculated, and now, by the authority of an angry block-cornice architect, dictated for the carpenters of Baltimore town; together with explanatory notes, &c. &c. and a number of additional prices, &c. &c. for curriers grain-boards, salt-boles, brush-handles, wood-horses, three legged stools, &c. &c. never attempted to be calculated by any person heretofore.
Baltimore: Printed by David Graham. Sold by John Dalrumple, John Scrogs, Christian Baum, in behalf of themselves and the Carpenters society. 1792.

Advertised in the March 6, 1792, issue of the Baltimore daily repository, as "Now in the press, and will, in a few days, be ready for sale, by the subscribers, - price eleven-pence."