

broadside. 33 x 21 cm.

"Detailing threats made against him for so doing and the reasons why his orders should be enforced."

- Evans.

Evans 26762.

MdHi.

- 160 Chesterfield's impenetrable secret.
Baltimore: Printed by Yundt and Patton. 1794.

Advertised in the September 25, 1794 issue of the Baltimore daily intelligencer as "Just published, and for sale, at this printing-office, in Calvert-street, near the Court-house, (price, one quarter of a dollar per pack.) A new and elegant edition of Chesterfield's impenetrable secret; consisting of ten cards, which contain one hundred excellent proverbs: each card contains ten lines with a border, on one side, and ten without a border on the other, and are so arranged as to enable the purchaser to show any person the line they may think of on the plain side.  Plain and exact directions for shewing the secret, &c. are put up in each pack. [signed] Fryer & Brown."

Evans 27026 (entered under Fryer & Brown).

No copy located.

- 161 Clark, Joseph, d. 1798.
Polymathy; or the American builder. A work calculated equally to edify and entertain the gentleman farmer, surveyor, builder and mechanic.
Annapolis: Printed by F. and S. Green? 1794.

"Joseph Clark, architect, at Annapolis, proposed to publish the above, by subscription, January-June 1794." - Evans.

Evans 26770.

No copy located.

- 162 The Comical sayings of Paddy from Cork, with his coat buttoned behind to keep his belly warm. Being an elegant conference between English Tom and Irish Paddy.
Baltimore: Printed by James Angell, for Fisher and Cole. 1794.

Advertised in the Maryland journal and Baltimore