

290 Keatinge, George, d. 1811.

Sale catalogue of books, for 1796. - Part first, containing a general assortment of English books, in every department of polite literature. Part second, contains a collection of French & German books - now selling wholesale and retail on the most reasonable terms.
Baltimore: George Keatinge. 1796.

Advertised as "this day published" in the May 6, 1796 issue of the Maryland journal, & Baltimore advertiser.

Evans 30652.

No copy located.

291 Linley, Francis, 1774-1800.

Linley's assistant, / for the / piano-forte./ containing the / necessary rudiments for beginners,/ and / twenty-four lessons / progressively arranged:/ with / preludes, rules for thorough bass, and a short / dictionary of musical terms, &c. / The lessons and preludes have their fingering marked./ [ornamental rule] / A new edition - price one dollar fifty cents. / [ornamental rule] / Printed & sold by I. Carr, at his music store, Market-street, Baltimore. / where may had / Antoniotto's Treatise on the composition of music, Dls. 5 50 / Rameau's ditto, 2 75 / Lamp's Thorough bass, 3 25 / Dr. Pepusch's Treatise on 3 and 4 parts, 2 50 / [index] Music engraved and printed // [1796]

4°. 31 1/2 cm.

Pages: 1 p.l.; numbered leaves, 2-4; p. 5-32.

No signatures.

"Advertised Sept. 30, 1796, as printed and sold by J. Carr, Baltimore." - Upton, p. 380.

Not in Evans.

MdHi.

292 Linley, Francis, 1774-1800.

A Now assistant, / for the piano-forte or harpsichord / containing the necessary rudiments for beginners, / with twelve airs or short lessons, progressively arrang'd: / to which is added, six sonatas, one of which is adapted / for two performers, with preludes, rules for thorough / bass, a short dictionary of musical terms. &c. / [ornamental rule] N. B. [ornamental rule] / The lessons,