The plan of Baltimore, with the names of all the streets, lanes and alleys, public buildings, wharfs, &c. elegantly engraved by Galland, from actual survey.

Referred to on page 160 of Thomas W. Griffith's Annals of Baltimore: "1797 ... Mr. George Keatinge published a small plan of the city."

John Galland was an engraver in Philadelphia, 1796-1817, according to D. McN. Stauffer's American engravers upon copper and steel, pt. 1, p. 94. Keatinge's Plan of Baltimore is not included in the list of Galland's works, pt. 2, p. 173.
