

Baltimore: Typis Johannis Hayes [1799]

Not in Evans; Parsons 210.
No copy located.

481 Cicero; / or, / A discovery / of / a clan of conspirators / against / all religions and governments / in / the whole world. / Extracted / from Robinson, Mounier and Barruel; / and / interspersed with hints in due season. / By / a citizen of the United States. / [double rule] / Fas est ab
hoste doceri. / [double rule] / [double rule] / Baltimore: / Printed by J. Hayes, No. 8, Baltimorestreet. / [rule] / M, DCC, XCIX. //

nar. 12°. 20 cm.

Pages: [1-4], 5-61.

Signatures: [A]¹², B¹², C⁸ (last leaf blank).

Evans 35307.

DLC, MdBE.

482 Cole, John, 1774-1855, ed.

Sacred harmony, containing a variety of plain and simple airs, adapted to all the metres in Dr.
Watts' Psalms, improved by Mr. Barlow; and a choice collection of the most approved hymn tunes,
adapted to all the metres in the Methodist pocket hymn book, together with a concise introduction to the art of singing - by John Cole.
Baltimore: Published by J. Carr. 1799.

Advertised as "just published" in the March 2, 1799 issue of the Telegraphe and daily advertiser.
The advertisement gives District of Maryland copyright notice, dated "the twenty-fifth day of February, in the twenty-third year of the independence of the United States of America." Joseph Carr, as proprietor, deposited the title of the book.

Evans 35319.

No copy located.

483 A / collection / of / religious tracts, / from / different authors. / [ornamental rule] / Republished / for the / information and serious perusal / of all / sober enquirers. / [rule] /
Baltimore: / Printed by William Pechin, No. 15, /
Market-street. / 1799. //