of the partisan in the files of the Telegraphe through 1800, and almost none of the bitterness which often invaded the editorials of the Federal Gazette, the Intelligencer and the American. Rather, to quote an editorial of Dobbin's, in the Telegraphe of November 17, 1797:

The printers have always steadily held in view, one principle object, impartiality, from which they are determined never to derogate.

clayland and Dobbin obtained considerable book and pamphlet printing. In 1795, they printed Archi-bald Buchanan's Oration, Composed and Delivered at the Request of the Republican Society of Baltimore, 62 and Cases argued and Ruled at Nisi Prius, in the Courts of King's Bench, and Common Pleas, from Easter Term 33 George III to Hilary Term 34 George III, 63 the latter for Keatinge's book store. During subsequent years their book printing increased.

They obtained the printing of all the theatre bills which have survived from the years 1795 and 1796; and here it may be mentioned that the Telegraphe is the only Baltimore newspaper of the 1790's, after William Goddard left the editorial chair of the Maryland Journal, which has been observed to include
