

ment, by due authority, of a Catholic episcopacy within the United States, it was natural for the faithful members of the Church to hope, that an event so important in the history of religion, might here be followed with the same happy consequences as have been produced in other countries by similar establishments. [15 lines] ... a resolution was conceived to celebrate our auspicious delivery from iniquitous laws, and the introduction of an episcopal government into the Catholic American Church, by raising every where, as much as possible, places of Catholic worship for the encouragement and convenience of the faithful; and also by a general contribution, to erect a Cathedral. [32 lines] J. Bishop of Baltimore. [Baltimore, 1808] broadside (2 p.) 25.5 x 20.5 cm. Without imprint. Parsons 316.

An appeal to the clergy to encourage contributions from their congregations toward the erection of the Cathedral.

Balt. Cath. Archives.

[605]

Carter, Susannah.

[The Frugal Housewife, or, complete Woman Cook. Containing upwards of five hundred approved receipts. Baltimore? S. Butler? 1808]

Advertised in the Baltimore Evening Post, June 24, 1808, as "Just Published, and for sale by Samuel Butler."

Not listed in Bitting beyond Philadelphia 1802 edition; PPL has a New York 1803 edition.

No copy known.

[606]

Catholic Church. Liturgy and ritual. Directory. Baltimore (Archdiocese)

[Ordo Divini Officii recitandi, pro Anno Domini M,DCCC,IX. Baltimore, J. W. Butler, 1808]

Parsons 329.

No copy known; copy noted by Parsons could not be found.

[607]

Clowes, John.

The Caterpillars and the Gooseberry Bush; or, a True Figure of bad Passions, and their mischievous Effects. To which is added, The Rain-Bow, or the Token of God's Covenant with his People. [filet] By way of Dialogue,