

assess the results of this experiment, it will be continued for another year. The projected directory of public officers has not progressed beyond the preparation and mimeographing of the questionnaire. It had been hoped that this work would get under way at the beginning of the new fiscal year, but this project and some others will have to be postponed until new members of the staff to replace the experienced employees who have recently resigned are found and trained.