PHOTOCOPYING

At the end of the last fiscal year we had come nearly to the end of our program of photostating all the county land records created before the adoption of the Federal Constitution, April 28, 1788. That the project was not completed is due to the fact that the recurrence of a state of war put emphasis on the need for quick photographic reproduction, the creation of security copies of rare or unique manuscripts and printed books rather than on the multiplication of convenient research tools.

We did, however, find time to conclude work in Cecil County and to begin in the last two counties, Caroline and Harford. At the end of the fiscal year only one volume remained to be done in Caroline and six or seven in Harford. As I pointed out in my last report, we do not intend to continue this work to a later date, and it may be expected, therefore, that this unique Maryland endeavor will have been completed during the current fiscal year or approximately ten years after it was begun.

A list of the county land record volumes photostated during the year follows:

Caroline County Land Commissions
