COUNTY LAND RECORDS PROJECT

We are glad to report steady if unspectacular progress in micro-filming the county land records of Maryland. Ten of the twenty-three counties are now completed, but the project is even farther advanced than these figures might indicate because among these ten are three of the most populous counties, Baltimore, Anne Arundel and Prince George's. The other two large collections are being done: Montgomery County in one year of filming has covered the years from 1850 to 1908, and Baltimore City has made a satisfactory beginning. The Cecil County project has, unfortunately, made no progress during the last two years. The years which have been completed, 1918-1949, were done by a commercial indexing company interested only in that period. The lack of a camera in the courthouse has, at least for the present, discouraged any additional work.

For the new year we hope to advance the work in Montgomery County and in Baltimore City, but we cannot expect to finish these
