

Assistant Director, South Carolina Archives Department, Columbia, South Carolina; Horace M. Merrell, Supervisory Archivist, General Services Administration, National Archives & Records Service, Federal Records Center, East Point, Georgia; Arthur W. Murdoch, Archivist, Department of Public Records and Archives, Government of the Province of Ontario, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, Canada; Miss Kathleen L. Oliver, Archivist, Edison Laboratory National Monument, Orange, New Jersey; Mrs. Ollin J. Owens, Special Collections Librarian, Furman University Library, Greenville, South Carolina; Ernesto A. Reina, Honduras; Sister Mary Amadeus Ruda, C.S.S.F., Our Lady of the Angels Convent, Enfield, Connecticut; Miss Joanne Shaw, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston, Massachusetts; George W. Southworth, Librarian, Detroit Public Library, Detroit, Michigan; Reverend Francis J. Weber, Caldwell Hall, Catholic University of America, Washington, D. C.

The Eleventh Annual Institute on Genealogical Research of the American University came to the Hall of Records July 19, 1961. The class was composed of the following students of genealogy: Mrs. Elizabeth Duffield, Ronald Allen Bremer, Mrs. Walter J. Buss, Miss Emma H. Cage, Mrs. Dorris Howe Friedman, Mrs. Lucy Dawson Haglund, Mrs. Lida Flint Harshman, Mrs. Bert Mary Harter, Mrs. Laura Morris Jones, Miss Sarah Wilson Jones, Mrs. Mildred Elaine Haworth London, Joseph Anthony Panosetti, Mrs. Eleanor Patch, Mrs. Jeannette Thielens Phillips, Charles L. Reynard, Mrs. Zelma B. Reynard, Mrs. R. W. Riedel, Dohrman J. Sinclair, Miss Gertrude A. Steffe, Mrs. Iola L. Stocking, Richard S. Uhrbrock.

VISITS AND VISITORS

We have also found it necessary to divide the responsibility for visiting. We must visit other established archives, historical societies, and museums; otherwise in a new profession, it is easy to follow long-established folly instead of new wisdom. We must see what new equipment and design are to be discovered in newly-built institutions. We ought, and want, to be present at the dedication of historical monuments, the opening of new historical societies, the restoration of houses and buildings. Fortunately, these things become more frequent each year. You will see from the account below how we have managed.