

Executive Director of National Historic Publications Commission, The National Archives; Wilbur H. Hunter, Director, Peale Museum, Baltimore, Maryland; Bryden B. Hyde, Architect, Gibson Island, Maryland; Thomas W. Jamison III, State Law Department, Assistant Attorney General; Norman Jones, University of Maryland, student of Colonial Development of Politics in Prince George's County; J. Reaney Kelly, author of Quakers in the Founding of Anne Arundel County, Maryland; Robert J. Kerr II, Director, Historic Annapolis, Inc.; Judith Klein, Research Assistant at University of North Carolina, student of 19th century American agriculture; Aubrey C. Land, Chairman, Department of History, University of Maryland; Reverend Robert Lawthers, Deacon in Charge, Trinity Parish, Charles County; Charles T. Leisure, The Johns Hopkins University, student of development of compulsory education in Maryland, 1900-1916; Isaac Don Levine, historian, Waldorf, Maryland; E. John Long, Captain, USN, Bethesda, author of article "Disputes Concerning Boundary Between Maryland and Virginia"; John T. Luzader, National Park Service, historian of Harper's Ferry.

Reverend James F. Madison, Rector, St. Anne's Church, Annapolis; Mrs. John O. McNelly, Regent, Peggy Stewart Tea Party Chapter, Daughters of American Revolution, Annapolis; Delegate Bernard J. Medairy, Jr., Baltimore County; Isagani R. Medina, University of the Philippines, National Library; Peter G. Miller, Georgetown University, historian of 17th century Maryland county courts; Hugh Montgomery, Librarian, University of Massachusetts Library; Phillip Monypeny, Professor, Department of History, University of Illinois; Robert D. Murphy, University of Delaware, student of social history of Cecil County in the 18th century; Ann Nixon, Georgetown University, student of labor movement in Maryland during the Revolutionary period; Margaret A. Nossel, Admissions Office, Trinity College, Washington, D. C.; Reverend William M. Plummer, Rector, Christ Church, Port Republic, Calvert County; C. Franklin Poole, Records Management Officer, City Hall, Baltimore; Ernst Posner, Director, Study of State Archival Programs; Bumaji Rajanan, Archivist, Salem, Madras, India; Robert Reithmiller, Prothonotary of Montgomery County, Pennsylvania; Abbie T. Sands, Hunter College, student of history of Puritans and Presbyterians; Reverend Edwin Schell, President, Methodist Historical Society of the Baltimore Conference; Joseph H. Smith, Professor of Law, Columbia University, legal historian and editor of Liber A, Prince George's County Court Records; Jean Stephenson, Director, Genealogical Institute; William T. Stone, President, Historic Annapolis,