

College, and a party of 23 students; Rosamond Randall Beirne, Historian, Ruxton, Maryland; Margaret Brown, student of History of St. Anne's Parish, Towson State College; Mrs. George E. Burnett, Trustee of the Maryland Historical Trust, Salisbury; William L. Calderhead, Professor of History, U.S. Naval Academy; The Rev. Edward B. Carley, Assistant Pastor, St. Peter's Cathedral, Wilmington, Delaware; Kenneth L. Carroll, Professor at Southern Methodist University, and Quaker Historian; Joseph B. Chepaitis, biographer of Governor Albert C. Ritchie, Georgetown University; Howard V. Christian, student of The Contemporary Significance of Original Land Survey Patterns in the Delmarva Peninsula, Syracuse University; James Crooks, graduate student, The Johns Hopkins University; Robert W. Daly, Professor, U.S. Naval Academy; Beatrice Davis, Director of Students, Drexel Institute of Technology; Rhoda M. Dorsey, Associate Professor of History, Goucher College; Richard K. Doud, biographer of John Hesselius; The Rev. Paul S. Dawson, Rector, St. John's Parish, Harford County; William V. Elder III, Staff Member Baltimore Museum of Art; C. Ashley Ellefson, Associate Professor of History, Courtland College, New York; Admiral E. M. Eller, U.S.N. (Ret.) Director of Naval History, Washington, D.C.; Eugene Louis Finch, biographer of Thomas Attwood Digges, 1742-1821, Phillips-Exeter Academy, Exeter, N.H.

H. Chandlee Forman, Architect-Historian, Easton, Maryland; Delegate Henry J. Fowler, St. Mary's County; Donald Friary, student of Church and Manor at Newtown Neck, University of Pennsylvania; Victor Gondos, Jr., Army and Air Corps Branch, The National Archives and Records Service; Nancy A. Goyne, Winterthur Museum, student of Philadelphia Furniture Craftsmen, 1768-1780; Teresa Green, student of Paint Industry in United States up to 1850, University of Delaware; Jane Gurganus, graduate student, Goucher College; Walter Harris, Kent County Historical Society; Gerald E. Hartdagen, student of the Anglican Vestry in Colonial Maryland, Northwestern University; Mrs. Truman E. Hinton, Historian of Prince George's County; Oliver W. Holmes, Executive Director, National Historic Publications Commission, The National Archives and Records Service; James A. Hooge, student of Establishment of Anglican Church in Maryland, George Washington University; Senator Harry Hughes, Caroline County; Bryden B. Hyde, Architect-Historian, Gibson Island; Harold N. Ingle, Graduate Student, The Johns Hopkins University; John D. Kilborne, Librarian, Maryland Historical Society; Warren F. Kimball, research on Day Wages in Maryland, 1763-1783, Georgetown University and