CHAPTER 123.

Passed March 7
1828

An act to establish the width of Orleans street in the city of Baltimore.

Preamble.

WHEREAS, the said street heretofore forty feet wide eastwardly from its intersection with Aisquith street, was by the authority of certain commissioners appointed under the act passed 1st December session eighteen hundred and seventeen, chapter one hundred and forty eight, entitled, "An act relating to the city of Baltimore," widened on the south side of said street to the width of sixty six feet as will appear by the proceedings of said commissioners returned to the register of the city of Baltimore, and whereas it is represented to this general assembly, that forty feet is a sufficient width for said street, from Aisquith street to the eastern limits of the city aforesaid; And whereas, that portion of the property on the south side of said street, which is now condemned for the widening of said street, if allowed to remain in that state of condemnation, for an indefinite period, as is likely to be the case, must prove of little or no value to the owners thereof, inasmuch as there is, and will be no encouragement for its improvement—Therefore, conditionally.

Width reduced—

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the width of said street now sixty six feet, be reduced to the original width of forty feet; Provided this reduction of the width of said street shall be approved by the mayor and city council, on or before the first day of March, eighteen hundred and twenty nine.
