Seventh. To the bequest contained in said last will and testament of Susan R. Bonsall, in words following, to wit: "I give and bequeath to the Real Estate Title Insurance and Trust Company of Philadelphia, and located in the city of Philadelphia, the sum of six thousand dollars, in trust, to invest the same and to pay the net income and profits arising from the same equally to Eleanor S. Hand, Mary K. Hand, Lydia Hand, Laura Hand, Parmalee and Margaret Hand, wife of J. H. Hand, for and during their lives and until the death of the last survivor of them, my intent being that the net income of the above trust fund of six thousand dollars shall be divided equally among the five persons herein named, and upon the death of one or either of them, then the net income from the said trust fund of six thousand dollars shall be equally distributed among the survivors until the death of the last one of the five legatees named in this clause, and immediately upon the death of the last of the five named legatees, then the principal sum of six thousand dollars I give and bequeath to the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America, free, clear and discharged from all trusts and limitations."

Eighth. To the bequest contained in the twelfth clause of said last will and testament of said Susan R. Bonsall in words following, to wit: "All the rest and residue of my estate, including any one of the devises and bequests hereinbefore given, which from any cause shall fail to take effect, I give and bequeath to the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America, to be used by said society for the endowment of scholarships in some mission school supported and maintained in whole or in part by said missionary society, preference to be given to such schools as shall be designated by Rev. Osborne Ingle within one year after my death."

Ninth. To the devise and gift contained in the last will and testament of Leah J. Tingle, late of Worcester county, deceased, of a house and lot on Federal street, in the town of
