

CHAP. 94

and it shall be lawful for any court, register, clerk or other officer or person, whose duty it is to approve any bond or other obligation required by law to be executed by two or more sureties to approve such bond or obligation when executed by said company as sole surety. That said company is authorized and empowered to receive and hold collateral or indemnity of any nature or kind whatsoever, to secure it against loss on any bond or other obligation issued by it, and to enforce any bond, contract, obligation, pledge or agreement, or other security made or given for such purpose. The said company shall be subject at all times to the provisions of the Act of 1892, Chapter 109, and to the Act of 1892, Chapter 279, or any amendments or supplements thereto.

New section added.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That an additional section be added to the aforesaid act of incorporation or charter of said company, to be known as Section 24, and to read as follows :

may be deposited.

Section 24. That it shall be lawful for any administrator, guardian, receiver, assignee, trustee or other fiduciary for whom a bond, undertaking or other obligation is required, to agree and arrange with said company as his surety, for the deposit and safekeeping of any and all money, assets and other property for which he is or may be responsible, with the bank, savings bank, safe deposit or trust company selected by such fiduciary, in such manner as to prevent the withdrawal or alienation of such money, assets or other property, or any part thereof, without the counter signature or written consent of said company, or an order of the Court or a judge thereof having jurisdiction over such fiduciary, made on such notice to said company as the court or judge may direct.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved March 15, 1906.
