

reverter which may arise on breach of such condition or conditions, under the following restrictions.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved March 18, 1908.

CHAPTER 569.

AN ACT to add a new section concerning the rule against perpetuities to article 93 of the Code of Public General Laws of 1888, title "Testamentary Law," sub-title "Wills," and to article 93 of the Code of Public General Laws of 1904, title "Testamentary Law," sub-title "Wills," to come in after section 308, in said Code of 1888, and to be known as section 308A, therein, and to come in after section 315 in said Code of 1904, and to be known as section 315A therein.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That a new section concerning the rule against perpetuities be added to article 93 of the Code of Public General Laws of 1888, title "Testamentary Law," sub-title "Wills," and to article 93 of the Code of Public General Laws of 1904, title "Testamentary Law," sub-title "Wills," to come in after section 308 in said Code of 1888, and to be known therein as section 308A, and to come in after section 315 in said Code of 1904, and to be known as section 315A, and to read as follows, except that in the said Code of 1904, the number of the section shall be 315A, instead of section 308A.

SEC. 308A. The rule against perpetuities shall not apply to any contingent remainder, executory devise, bequest or limitation of real or personal property, or both, by will or testament, intended to transfer the same from any corporation incorporated for charitable or educational objects to an individual or from any such corporation to any other such corporation on a contingency or future event, nor to any condition subsequent, or breach thereof upon which any such devise, bequest or limitation is intended to operate.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That this Act is not intended to be, and shall not be construed as an interpretation of existing law.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 6, 1908.