

thought necessary for doing greater honor to such graduates, shall also be signed with the names of the President or Trustees and the different Professors, or as many of them as can conveniently sign the same; provided, always, that no student or students within the said College shall ever be admitted to any such degree or degrees, or have their names inserted in any mandate for a degree, until such students have been duly examined and judged worthy of the same at a public examination; and provided further, that no person or persons, except the students of said College, shall ever be admitted to any honorary or other degree or degrees of the same, unless a majority of the whole number of the Trustees, by a mandate under their privy seal and signed by the hands of said majority of the Trustees to the President and Professors directed, having signified their approbation and authority for the particular admission of said person or persons to said degree or degrees.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That the said Trustees and their successors, from time to time, and at all times hereafter forever, shall have full power to constitute and appoint, in such manner as they think best and most convenient, a President of the said College and Professors, with proper Tutors and Assistants, for instructing the students and scholars in said College in all the liberal arts and sciences, and agriculture, and in the ancient and modern languages, who shall be severally styled Professors of such arts, sciences, languages, as they shall be nominated and appointed for according to each particular nomination and appointment, and the said President and Professors so constituted and appointed from time to time shall be known and distinguished forever as one learned body or faculty, by the name of the President and Professors of the said "The Blue Ridge College," and in that name shall be capable of exercising such powers and authorities as the Trustees of the said College and their successors shall by their ordinances think necessary to delegate to them for the instruction, discipline and government of said College.

SEC. 7. And be it further enacted, That the said Trustees and their successors shall meet at least once in every year, in stated annual meeting, to be appointed by their own ordinances, and at such other times as by their said ordinances they may direct, in order to examine the progress of students and scholars in literature, to hear and determine upon all complaints and appeals, and determine on all matters touching the discipline of the said college and the good and wholesome execution of their ordinances, in all of which examinations, meetings and determinations a majority in number of the trustees duly met shall be a quorum.