

MISS EDITH COOPER

Miss Edith Cooper, graduate of local schools and bachelor of arts from Morgan College. She has the unusual distinction of being the first colored supervisor of elementary grades.

Dr. Georgiana R. Simpson was born in Washington, D. C. She studied at Fraulein Wahrendorf's Seminary for Young Women and Girls in Rostock, Germany, and in Paris and Tours Alliance Francaise. She received her Ph. D. degree from the University of Chicago, June, 1921. Dr. Simpson is a teacher of Latin, French and German at Dunbar High School. Dunbar High School is the only school in this country with two female members of its faculty with a Ph. D. degree, namely, Dr. Simpson and Dr. Dykes.

EVA BEATRICE DYKES

Eva Beatrice Dykes, one of the first three colored women to receive the degree of Ph. D., June 1921. Educated in the public schools of Washington, D. C.

A. B. "summa cum laude," Howard University, 1914. College of Arts and Sciences.

A. B. "magna cum laude," with honors in English, Radcliffe, 1917.

A. M. in English, Radcliffe College, Cambridge, Mass., 1918.

Ph. D. in English, Radcliffe, 1921. Subject of doctor's dissertation, "Pope and His Influence in America from 1715 to 1850."

While at Radcliffe received two scholarships of $200 each, one in the under-graduate department and one in the graduate department. At present teacher of English, Dunbar High.