

land, to be known as Section 126B of Article 77 of the Annotated Code of Maryland, title "Public Education," sub-title "High Schools," said new section to follow immediately after Section 126-A of said Article, and to read as follows:

126-B. No white high school teacher regularly employed in the public high schools of the State of Maryland shall receive a salary of less than nine hundred dollars ($900) per school year, provided that if such teacher holds a high school teacher's certificate of the first class, and has taught in an approved high school of the State of Maryland for a period of one year, such teacher shall receive a salary of not less than nine hundred and fifty dollars ($950) per school year; provided, further, if such teacher holds a high school teacher's certificate of the first class and has taught in an approved high school of the State of Maryland for a period of three years, such teacher shall receive a salary of not less than one thousand dollars ($1,000) per school year; provided, further, if such teacher holds a high school teacher's certificate of the first class and has taught in an approved high school of the State of Maryland for a period of five years, such teacher shall receive a salary of not less than one thousand and fifty dollars ($1,050) per school year; and provided, further, if such teacher holds a high school teacher's certificate of the first class and has taught in an approved high school of the State of Maryland for a period of seven years, such teacher shall receive a salary of not less than one thousand one hundred dollars ($1,100) per school year.

High school teachers employed on provisional certificates may be paid one hundred dollars ($100) per school year less than the schedule herein requires, and in any county such teachers shall be paid at least one hundred dollars ($100) per school year less than fully qualified teachers.

No white principal of a first group high school shall receive a salary of less than one thousand two hundred dollars ($1,200) per school year; provided that if such principal holds a high school principal's certificate of the first class and has served as principal of an approved high school of the first group in the State of Maryland for a period of one year, such principal shall receive a salary of at least one thousand three hundred dollars ($1,300) per school year; provided, if such principal has served as a principal of an approved high school of the first group in the State of Maryland for a period
