

COUNTY COURTS.

The judges of the county courts of the fourth judicial district, or any one of them, in vacation, empowered, either before or after a decree, to pass any order which may be necessary to bring a cause to a final hearing, or to carry a decree already passed into final effect,

27

— Some one of the associate judges to attend at the court-house of Somerset county at some day (to be appointed by the court,) between the several sessions of the court, who shall have power to make all necessary orders, &c. Duty of the clerk to attend the said judge, &c.

27

One of the judges of any county court, in the vacation or recess of the court, may approve the bond, and securities thereto, of a trustee appointed by the court,

26

The act of 1827, ch. 47, requiring one of the judges of the fifth judicial district to attend at the court house in Allegany county at some day between the several sessions of their court, &c. repealed,

28

The acts of 1823, ch. 181, and 1826, ch. 2, respecting the equity business in the county courts of the first judicial district, repealed; and the judges to attend on days to be appointed. Their powers and duties prescribed,

91

An additional salary allowed to the judges of Baltimore county court, for certain services,

127

Regulations respecting the times of holding Baltimore county court, and for the dispatch of business therein,

161

The several county courts to appoint commissioners to take the depositions of witnesses in civil cases,

165

In suits on the equity side of the county courts for the sale of the estate of any deceased person for the payment of debts or legacies, or for the sale of any mortgaged premises, or to foreclose a mortgage, or to compel a conveyance of real estate, any infant defendant, a resident of the state, against whom process hath issued, who shall not appear before the court, or commissioner, and such infant has been kept out of the way or prevented from being served with the process,