

CHAP. 93.

teen, chapter one hundred and eighty-three, any insolvent debtor may apply for a discharge under the insolvent laws of this State, may take the acknowledgment of any conveyance of such applicant of his estate, for the benefit of his creditors, prescribed to be executed by the said original act, or any of the supplements thereto, to the same effect as such acknowledgment may now be taken by any two justices of the peace.

---

 CHAPTER 93.

Passed Feb. 23, 1835

A further supplement to an act, entitled, an act to establish a Bank in the City of Baltimore, to be called The City Bank of Baltimore, and an act, entitled, a supplement to an act to Incorporate a Company to make a Turnpike Road leading to Cumberland, and for the extension of charters of the several Banks in the City of Baltimore, and for other purposes.

Preamble

WHEREAS, an act to establish the City Bank of Baltimore, passed December session, eighteen hundred and twelve, chapter one hundred and eighty, did confer certain powers, to continue and be in force until the first day of November, eighteen hundred and thirty-five, and until the end of the next session of the General Assembly thereafter; And whereas, subsequently it became advisable for the said City Bank of Baltimore to wind up its concerns, and to accomplish the same, an act was passed December session, eighteen hundred and twenty, chapter forty-seven; and, as the concerns of said Bank have not been wholly closed, and certain suits remain undetermined, in which said Bank is a party; and there remains property on hand unsold, and deeds are yet to be executed for property, the payments for which have not yet become due; and to enable the said Bank the more easily to wind up its affairs, by the extension and intervention of its corporate powers;—Therefore,

Term of certain acts extended

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the act to establish a Bank in the city of Baltimore, passed December session, eighteen hundred and twelve, chapter one hundred and eighty, and the several supplements thereto, which may be necessary for the consummation of this act, shall continue and be in force until the first day of November, eighteen hundred and forty, and until the end of the