On motion, the question was put, That the order of this house relative to the second reading of the resolutions disapproving of the embargo be rescinded? Resolved in the affirmative.

On motion, the question was put, That the said resolutions have a second reading on Tuesday next? Determined in the negative.

The house proceeded to the second reading of the said resolutions, and, on motion, the question was put, That the following be inserted after the word "whereas?" viz. "the unjust and unwise policy pursued by the two great belligerents of Europe against the commerce of the United States, have produced a crisis unusually momentous and interesting in our foreign and domestic relations: And whereas the late communications to congress by the president, fully evince his ardent desire to preserve the peace, happiness and neutrality, of the union; therefore RESOLVED, by the general assembly of Maryland, That the late executive overtures to the governments of France and England, in relation to commercial rights and injuries, contain a liberal and wise system of policy, calculated to restore commerce to her former condition, without compromising the dignity or neutrality of the United States.

"RESOLVED, That we have full confidence in the patriotism and virtue of congress, and are prepared to adopt and enforce those measures, either of peace or war, which their wisdom may direct."

The yeas and nays being required, appeared as follow:
