

Mr. Bland, from the committee, delivers to the speaker a bill, entitled, An act for the relief of William Patton, of the city of Baltimore; which was read the first time and ordered to lie on the table.

On motion, Leave given to bring in a bill, entitled, An act to enlarge the powers of the trustees of the poor in Somerset county. ORDERED, That Mr. Cottman, Mr. Bayly and Mr. Gale, be a committee to prepare and bring in the same.

Mr. Chapman, from the committee, delivers to the speaker the following report:

THE committee to whom was referred the memorial of John Kilty, report, that they have considered the subject of the reference; the committee have also examined the work called The Land-Office Guide, written and compiled by the memorialist.

The memorialist, in the execution of this work, has performed a most laborious task, and has been necessarily obliged to go through a long and painful research into the public records for those documents which were essential to the completion of the treatise he was engaged in.

The committee beg leave to observe, that before the publication of the work now prepared by the memorialist, the laws and regulations of the land-office, so highly important to the landed interest, have rested solely on tradition; some few adjudications, and upon many unconnected documents in the public offices, no compilation of those laws having ever been attempted until the memorialist first set the example.

The committee are of opinion, that the present work reflects great credit upon the memorialist, and will be extensively beneficial to the citizens of this state; that if this subject had been pointed out to the legislature before the work commenced, the assembly would have directed a compilation of a similar nature; and that the memorialist having completed this laborious and useful undertaking without being particularly directed to do so, has not, by this act of confidence in the government, lessened his claims to the liberality of the legislature; and this general assembly being willing to patronize a work of such merit and public utility, therefore,

RESOLVED, That the treasurer of the western shore be and he is hereby directed to purchase of John Kilty, Esquire, — copies of The Landholder's Assistant and Land Office Guide, to be distributed among the different courts and offices of this state, and in such other manner as the governor and council shall think proper.

And RESOLVED FURTHER, That the said treasurer pay to the aforesaid John Kilty, Esquire, the sum of — dollars, in testimony of the opinion they entertain of the value of the said work, and as a remuneration on the part of this state to the author for the attention, labour and expense, necessarily employed in completing the same.

All which is submitted.

By order,

D. L. JACOB, clk.
