

made out to his son and heir, Cecilius, Baron of Baltimore, and bears date the 29th June 1632.

Lord Baltimore soon after sent out his brother, Leonard Calvert, Esq. with about two hundred gentlemen, with their adherents, as a colony to Maryland, who arrive at Point Comfort, in the Chesapeake Bay, on the 24th February 1633, and in a few days proceed up the Potowmack River, where they enter into a treaty and purchase an Indian town called YAO-COMOCO,—which they took possession of, and named ST. MARY'S, and where the seat of government was continued until the year 1694 when it was removed to Annapolis.

1632. The province of Maryland granted by Charles I. to Lord Baltimore.

1635 Connecticut, settled by Mr. Senwick, from Massachusetts.

1645. Claiborne raised a rebellion, and drove Calvert, from the province of Maryland.

1652. Parliament by force assumed the government of Maryland, and entrusted it to commissioners.

1656. A second insurrection, headed by Fendal.

1658. The commissioners surrendered the government to Fendal.

1662. Lord Baltimore resumes the government.