

SEC. 486. Whenever an association organized under this Act, shall purchase the business of another corporation, association, partnership or person it may pay for the same in whole or in part by issuing to the selling corporation, association, partnership or person certificates of indebtedness or shares of its capital stock to an amount, which at par value would equal the fair market value of the business purchased, and in such case the transfer to the association of such business at such valuation shall be equivalent to payment in cash for the shares of stock so issued. In any such transaction, the directors of the purchasing association are authorized to hold the shares in trust for the vendor and to dispose of the same to such persons and within such time as may be mutually satisfactory to the parties in interest, and to pay the proceeds thereof as currently received to the vendor.

SEC. 487. Certificates of stock shall not be issued to any subscriber until fully paid. In an association organized without capital stock, no certificate of membership shall be issued to any person until such person has paid in full the membership fee.

SEC. 488. At any regular or special meeting legally called, a written vote received by mail from any absent member, and signed by him may be read in such meeting and shall be equivalent to a vote of the member so signing; provided, that he has been previously notified in writing of the exact motion or resolution upon which such vote is taken; and a copy of the same is forwarded with the same and attached to the vote so mailed by him. Such vote by mail however, shall not be counted in computing a quorum.

SEC. 489. Any association organized under this act shall state in its by-laws the number or per centage of the members necessary in order to constitute a quorum.

SEC. 490. a. The directors in any association organized with capital stock shall annually apportion the next profits, if any, by first setting aside at least ten per cent. thereof for a reserve fund until such a fund equals thirty per cent of the paid-up common stock, and, thereafter the directors may set aside such an amount for a reserve fund as they see fit or may set aside none, in their discretion. The directors may then set aside out of the net profits such sums as they deem desirable for capital expenditure, subject to the approval of the stockholders as provided in sub-section (b) of this section. The directors
