

active management of all persons working on the roads in their respective districts; shall keep an accurate account of all time made by them; shall inspect the work of the road Foreman or Foremen in their respective districts as to the class of labor that they are employing, and shall not permit other than able-bodied men to work upon the roads at the current per diem paid; they shall keep accurate account of the time the several road gangs come to work in the morning and the time they quit in the evening, and shall supervise the manner of their work during the entire year when roads are being worked. They shall have submitted to them, two days in advance of the submission to the County Engineer, all road bills to be paid by the County Commissioners of the County; and such bills as they approve, they shall turn over to the Road engineer of the County for his approval, and after the approval of the County Commissioner residing in their respective districts and the approval of the Road Engineer, the bill shall be submitted to the County Commissioners for payment, and not before. And the County Commissioners are hereby directed not to pay any bill until at least two days before their meeting it has been approved by the County Commissioner of the District where the road work has been done and later approved, before presentation to the County Commissioners, by the Road Engineer.

The intent of this section being that the County Commissioners in their respective districts shall each give active supervision of this road work, and the people employed to do the same, and of the time made by each and every man working County roads in their respective districts.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That the County Commissioner resident in the City of Annapolis, with the assistance of the Clerk to the County Commissioners, shall act as Secretary and Auditor to the Road Board, and shall keep an accurate account of all bills paid; and shall at least once a month make out a statement of the condition of the road fund of the current year in the respective districts, showing the amount of the levy for roads in each district, the amount expended to date and the balance on hand unexpended; and if said fund is overdrawn it shall be his duty to so report in this his report to the whole Board of County Commissioners. A short synopsis of this condition of the road fund shall be published monthly in the paper doing the county printing; and it shall be his special duty to see that this report shows accurately the amount of money levied for roads in each district, the
