

The Mayor shall be the executive officer of the town and it shall be his duty to see that all ordinances thereof are duly enforced. He shall have the general supervision over all departments and employees.

96. The Mayor shall be President of the Council, preside at its meetings and shall have the right to discuss and vote upon any question coming before the Council. He shall have no power to veto any measure, but every ordinance, measure or resolution passed by the Council must be signed by the Mayor and two Councilmen, or by three Councilmen, and be recorded before same shall become effective and enforceable.

He shall have power to call special meetings of the Council upon one day's notice whenever in his opinion the public good may require it. In times of public danger, whenever it is impossible to convene the Council, he shall have power to appoint officers of the peace and safety for said town, charged with the duty of obtaining the peace and order thereof, who shall be subject to his orders and while in service perform such duties as he may require and have the same powers as the regular police force.

The Mayor, with the approval of the Council, shall make all contracts, purchase material and supplies and employ such laborers as may be necessary for work ordered done by the Council. He shall have power to remove any of the officers, agents, or employees appointed or employed by him for neglect of duty on their part or other reasonable cause, but he shall report any removal so made to the Council at its regular meeting, for its approval or disapproval.

97. Councilmen elected hereunder shall qualify on the first Monday in April before the Mayor and make the same oath as required of the Mayor.

Regular meetings of the Council shall be held on the first Monday of every month at such time as they may fix. Special meetings of the Council may be held at any time on the call of the Mayor and two members or by three members, upon reasonable notice being given to each member of the Council. All meetings shall be open to the public.

In case the Mayor is unable to perform the duties of his office by reason of temporary or continued absence or sickness, the said Council shall appoint by ballot, by a majority vote of all members thereof, one of their number to act in his stead, whose official designation shall be "Acting Mayor," and the
